Dear Parent/carers

Re: Allergies

Bake sales have been a great way for Nottingham Girls' Academy to raise money for charities chosen by our students and we are happy to continue these fun events.

We have an increasing number of students at school with food allergies and intolerances, including severe nut allergies. Our kitchens are already nut-free, and staff are aware and have been trained to deal with those who may have adverse reactions to nuts and related allergens and epi-pen use.

As a school, we wish to minimise the potential exposure of affected pupils to these allergens. Cakes sold at a cake sale are often donated by staff and students and, therefore, we cannot guarantee that they will not have been in contact with nuts. To ensure the safety of our pupils with allergies, we request that students with known allergies do not purchase cakes from the school during cake sales.

Yours faithfully

Mrs M Heron
Assistant Principal
